

WESTGATE ROAD,

Newcastle on Tyne.

July 20 1877

204

Dear Madam,

May I ask you to be kind enough to forward the enclosed pamphlet to W. Garrison?

Written during the great struggle in America, he will see that it deals with the anti-slavery
aspects of the conflict.
Of course there is nothing in the production worthy of his notice, except in so far as it shows the efforts that were being made in this country

to keep public opinion
right on the question of the day.

Allow me to thank you for the great pleasure I experienced in seeing once more one of the robust men of our time.

I am,

Dear Madam,

Yours very truly

A. E. Adams

Mrs. Mawson.

1847

[The remainder of the page contains extremely faint, illegible handwritten text, likely bleed-through from the reverse side.]